WHEN A REAL LIFE STORY INSPIRED THE REEL WORLD

BY RAMANDEEP KAUR
ramandeep18525@gmail.com

Panaji: When there is so much competition in today's modern world, many youth tend to get demotivated or anxious. Hence, there is a need to motivate them towards achieving their goals. 'This Book will change your life', a Konkani short film is one good example of an inspiring story made with the intention to encourage the youth.

Amey Hegde, executive producer of 'This Book will change your life' said, "This short film is based on the inspirational real life story of a physically-disabled entrepreneur Agostinho Fernandes from Ambaulim, Quepem. The movie casts the physically-disabled Agostinho as himself."

Hegde added, "The film also stars Rajkishore Mhambrey alongside Agostinho. Rajkishore plays the character of a young depressed man named Swapnil who is desperately searching for a job after doing his engineering. He then meets 'the real life book' Agostinho and after interacting with Agostinho he gets inspired to follow his dreams and use his talent to start a business doing something that truly makes him happy."

Speaking about what motivated him to make this 27-minute film, Hegde said, "Many youth blame their parents or circumstances for failures. We wanted youth to look at Agostinho's inspirational life and understand that it is possible to achieve one's dreams with the help of a positive attitude, hard work and perseverance."

Hegde further stated that despite completing graduation, many students in Goa and other places face a problem of underemployment and even unemployment. This film highlights this issue and suggests a way to resolve it through entrepreneurship.

When brought to his notice that there were already so many movies that portray disability so how is this movie different from the others, Hegde replied, "In most movies people feel sympathy for disabled characters. In this movie Agostinho's life inspires Swapnil as well as the "normal" audience to follow their dreams. After seeing the movie people walk out with the feeling that if Agostinho can achieve so much despite his physical limitations, why can't we."

GT POSITIVE

Stating the difference between a short film and a full length movie, Hegde said, "The steps and process in making both are very similar. The only difference is that full length movies usually have higher budgets and also get an opportunity to be screened in theatres."

"Short films are low-budget and no theatres are ready to screen them as people may not be ready to travel all the way to the theatre to watch a short film which may be of 25-30 minutes duration," Hegde added. Hoping this inspirational tale reach out to maximum children and youth. Hegde said, "I look forward to the support of directorate of education, government of Goa and request all schools and colleges to arrange screenings of the film to students."

"We would be delighted if theatres can come forward to arrange some free (non-ticketed) screenings of the short film for benefit of youth," Hegde said.

This film was also selected for screening at Cannes International Film Festival's Short Film Corner. Commenting on this Hegde said, "Around 20 short films from India were accepted for the Cannes Short Film Corner in May 2015. As executive producer of the film, I felt very happy to see a Goan Konkani short film in the Cannes Short Film Corner."

Speaking about his recent project, Hegde said, "I was recently part of a team that made a short film called 'Creeky Possession.' It was based on possession of Campal Creek by the evil spirit of pollution. The film was made during five-day science film making workshop as part of Vidnyan Parishad, Goa's Science Film Festival in January 2016."
